

Turn outrage into action

Pick one thing in the news that makes you angry, worried, or frustrated. Instead of just reacting to it, use AI to figure out where you might actually have leverage.

Step 1: Partner up - 2 min

Step 2: Pick an issue - 3 min

Make it as specific as you can.

Step 3: Ask the AI - 20 min

“I’m concerned about _____. Help me identify what happened, who made this decision, who has the power to change or stop it, what happens next, what opportunities exist for public participation, and three concrete actions an ordinary person could take. Verify current information with reliable sources, distinguish facts from assumptions, and tell me which actions target the people or institutions that actually have decision-making power.”

Step 4: Compare the answers from each partner - 10 min

Step 5: Choose an action. Ask the AI - 10 min

“Give me three concrete actions an ordinary person could take on this issue. For each one, tell me who I would be trying to influence, what I would actually do, and why that action might matter. Don’t exaggerate how much impact one person is likely to have.”

Step 6: Discuss with your partner - 5 min

- What actions are you most likely to take?

Step 7: Discuss with the larger group - 5 min

1. Are some issues easier to tackle with this method than others?
2. What actions surfaced besides “write your representative”?
3. What are the key take-aways?
4. Was using the AI helpful?
